

WHO WILL TAKE HOLD OF IT

Speech to plenary Session of Skukum IBM 1995 – Waterloo – Canada

Dr. Doris T. Allen

What it means for me to stand here and look at you... all of you

I had an idea in New York. At the time I was living in Cincinnati. And when I got home, the idea would not go away. But I wondered, would anyone understand. What will I do with it? Finally I got the courage to tell a few people at my home and look at what you have done.

Some how people did understand and did see the vision and it began to take form in terms of chapters. And look what you are today

And I wish you could feel what I feel as I observe this. It is something that cannot be put into words adequately. But I look into your eyes and that thought who will understand and who will want to work for peace. And the idea lived and demanded expression and there you were - you did understand

And you did have the motive to work and I am very much impressed by the work that you do, day after day, night after night. I am quite aware of it. And I want to try to feel the appreciation. Because I wondered what will happen to the idea. Who will take hold of it? Now I know. I know who will take hold of it.

And I have seen at this particular IBM that I think I have not seen before in such strength, and that is you. Thank you.
